Modern Group Quality Statement

Modern Group has grown from a small steel fabrication company to a large multi-facility steel structure and modular construction enterprise, employing over 1,700 staff.

Modern Group projects are installed worldwide and touch the lives of millions of consumers, entertainment goers, tourists, sports fans, retailers, developers, and those contracting projects in energy, oil & gas, mining, chemical, petrochemical, and general construction.

The survival of a supplier in today's market requires strict work ethics, excellent quality, and high performance. This understanding reinforces Modern Group's need to build strong customer relationships. If our production teams are not proactive in delivering the best quality goods and services, we increase our risk and exposure to damage claims.

The loss of customer confidence is not a viable option. Therefore, robust internal quality management processes must address the physical aspect of quality and how it impacts business relationship building and marketing.

Modern Group is committed to delivering quality and customer satisfaction from initial material procurement through fabrication, documentation, and finished product delivery. This commitment draws upon years of experience from our executives and commercial teams, knowledgeable engineers, competent production teams, and diligent quality assurance teams.

Modern Group undertakes projects with best practices and procedures and a total customer focus.

Modern Group workshops are certified by AISC Steel Buildings, City of Los Angeles Unlimited Fabricator, Canada CSA/CWB 47.1, EN 1090 1/2 +A1 (EXC-4), EN 13084-7 (Stacks), ISO 9001, ISO 14001, ISO 45001, and ISO 3834 [Design, Manufacture of Steel Structure & Modularized Production Facilities and Related Management Activities].

Modern Group's compliance with international standards demonstrates that our organization has prioritized standardizing and improving internal processes and procedures. All suppliers or vendors who wish to work with Modern Group must also envision and accept our quality requirements and accountability.

A lasting relationship is never an accident. It results from communication, planning, managing, transparency, patience, and evidence. It is a task of trust-building that only the best suppliers can achieve.
